2006 Election Administration and Voting Survey (released December 2007)

EAC's 2006 Election Administration and Voting Survey, the most comprehensive ever conducted by a governmental organization, was distributed to election administrators in all 50 states, as well as the District of Columbia, Guam, Puerto Rico, American Samoa, and the U.S. Virgin Islands. EAC combined the three required surveys – the 2006 Election Day Survey, the 2005-2006 National Voter Registration Act Survey and the Uniformed and Overseas Citizens Absentee Voting Act Survey – into one comprehensive data collection instrument. The findings were published in December 2007.

2004 Election Day Survey (released September 2006)

In fall of 2004, the U.S. Election Assistance Commission (EAC) distributed the first-ever Election Day Survey, requesting voting and elections information from election officials throughout the nation. The survey was made up of three separate surveys: the 2004 Election Day Survey, the 2003-2004 National Voter Registration Act Survey and the Uniformed and Overseas Citizens Absentee Voting Act Survey. The findings were published in September 2006.
