Provisional Voting Case Study

After being told about Provisional Voting, Arturo told Joan, the election clerk, that he would like to do that. Joan lead Arturo through the process having to qualify then directed him to pick up a ballot and the envelopes. After marking the ballot, Arturo set it on the table while Joan was helping another voter.

What should Joan remind Arturo to do with the marked ballot?

Vote

Direct voters who complete the qualifying process to a voting machine to cast a ballot. Instructions in the booth explain how to use the machine.

As Election Day proceeds, Judges and Clerks may be required to perform certain operations on the voting equipment. Click on the link below for a simulation that will teach you how to operate the equipment. The simulation will:

* demonstrate the operations,
* guide you through the steps of the operations, then
* allow you to practice the operations as many times as you like
