FEATURING, VOTER ID LAWS

Are you prepared? Voter ID law takes effect in Texas

by blake • July 18, 2013

Effective immediately, the following forms of photo identification will be accepted at the polling place for voting purposes. This new law will be in effect for the upcoming November 5, 2013 local elections. A voter will be required to show one of the following seven (7) forms of photo identification at the polling location before the voter will be permitted to cast a vote.

- Texas driver license—unexpired or expired less than 60 days — issued by the Texas Department of Public Safety (DPS)

- Texas Election Identification Certificate (EIC) issued by DPS (For more information on the EIC application process click HERE)

- Texas personal identification card issued by DPS—unexpired or expired less than 60 days
- Texas concealed handgun license issued by DPS—unexpired or expired less than 60 days

- United States military identification card containing the person’s photograph

- United States citizenship certificate containing the person’s photograph

- United States passport—unexpired or expired less than 60 days

Procedures for Voting

When a voter arrives at a polling location, the voter will be asked to present one of the seven (7) acceptable forms of photo ID. Election officials will now be required by State law to determine whether the voter’s name on the identification provided matches the name on the official list of registered voters (“OLRV”). After a voter presents their ID, the election worker will compare it to the OLRV. If the name on the ID matches the name on the list of registered voters, the voter will follow the regular procedures for voting.
If the name does not match exactly but is “substantially similar” to the name on the OLRV, the voter will be permitted to vote as long as the voter signs an affidavit stating that the voter is the same person on the list of registered voters.

If a voter does not have proper identification, the voter will still be permitted to vote provisionally. The voter will have (six) 6 days to present proper identification to the county voter registrar, or the voter’s ballot will be rejected.

The “substantially similar” names protocols can be found at http://tinyurl.com/subsimname. They are incredibly subjective. So even if you have one of the required forms of id, and it’s current, you could still have a problem if your name on the id is not exactly the same as your name on the voter registration list.

Incorporating Voter ID Into a Rap

(talking to a registered voter)

I have one more question: Have you heard about the new forms of ID you’ll need to bring in order to vote? Texas has implemented a new law that means you need to have one of six forms of ID to cast a ballot.

Do you currently have a government-issued ID with your photo, like a passport, military ID or an ID issued by the Texas Department of Public Safety?

(if no, skip down to No Current ID)

(if yes) Can I ask which one you have? Do you know the expiration date?

In order to vote, you’ll need to bring one of the following: driver’s license issued by DPS, personal ID issued by DPS, concealed handgun license, military ID, passport or citizenship certificate.

Do you have one of those?

(if yes) Great! You should make sure the expiration date is after Sept 6, 2013. And you should be aware that if your current appearance is substantially different from the picture on your ID, a poll worker could challenge your identity. (if no, keep going)

NO CURRENT ID

That’s ok, you’ll just need to go through the process of getting one of those forms of ID in order to vote.

People with disabilities can apply for a permanent exemption to this requirement, is this something that might apply to you? (if yes) You have to apply in-person at your county voter registrar’s office for the exemption. Would you like someone to follow-up with you about that? (if no, keep going)

You can also apply to vote by mail if you will be out of the county during early voting and on election day, are 65 years or older or have a disability. Would you like help applying through your county’s Early Voting Clerk? *(if yes, mark under “Other Help”) (if no, keep going)

The easiest form of ID to get is called an Election ID Certificate, it’s issued by DPS. But you’ll need to prove your citizenship status and your identity. Often you have to start with a birth certificate.

Do you have a copy of your birth certificate? If not, and if you were born in Texas, do you have any immediate family members with a state-issued ID who could request one for you from the Vital Statistics Office?

(see “Canvass & Phone Tracking Form” Excel or Google Doc for directions on information to track)

AWARENESS WEEK

Week of Sept. 16th

LEARN ABOUT PHOTOVOTER ID LAW & MORE

Due to the Supreme Court invalidating part of the Voting Rights Act, Texas is now using the photo voter ID law. Also, there are already local jurisdictions (like school districts and city councils) attempting to turn back the changes they had to make because of the Voting Rights Act that once protected minority and low-income voters.

Combatting the effects of this change requires a massive effort to assist and educate voters, and plot in reaction to voter suppression. We urge you to participate in our events this week!

The Honorable Kenny Marchant
U.S. House of Representatives
Washington, DC 20515

Dear Representative Marchant:

Thank you for your recent letter to the Department of Homeland Security (DHS) regarding the Transportation Security Administration’s (TSA) procedures for travel document checking, specifically the use of a Notice to Appear (Form I-862) as proof of identity for boarding commercial aircraft.

Travel document checking is one of the multiple security layers TSA uses in conducting screening operations and is performed to make sure that an individual attempting to enter the screening checkpoint has undergone watchlist matching. When checking travel documents, Transportation Security Officers request and inspect identification which TSA has determined to be acceptable to verify identity. Examples of acceptable identification are driver’s licenses, passports, and identification cards issued to Members of Congress. The name on the identification must be the same as the name on the boarding pass to conclude that watchlist matching has occurred.

If a passenger does not have an acceptable form of identification, then the passenger is allowed to present two other forms of identification. One of the two forms of identification must bear the individual’s name and other identifying information such as photo, address, phone number, social security number, or date of birth. TSA may assess a variety of government-issued documents to establish passenger identity. The I-862 form may be used along with another form of identification in this instance. As part of the issuance process for Form I-862, the person undergoes a biographic systems check, and a biometric systems check against both the Integrated Automated Fingerprint Identification System and the Automated Biometric Identification System prior to the issuance of Form I-862. TSA needs to be able to assess a wide range of information proffered by a passenger in order to investigate the passenger’s identity and make sure that watchlist matching has occurred.

If a passenger can only present a Form I-862, TSA will attempt to establish the passenger’s identity through DHS partner Components, such as U.S. Customs and Border Protection (CBP) or U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE). If other DHS Components are able to provide corroborating information (such as that the I-862 was issued to an individual with the name provided) to permit TSA to verify an individual’s identity when taken together with all other information available, the passenger is permitted into the screening checkpoint to undergo screening. If unable to verify the passenger’s identity, TSA will deny access to the screening checkpoint.
If either of the two alternate identity verification procedures described above is used, the passenger will receive additional screening of their person and accessible property to ensure he or she is not carrying prohibited items and does not represent a security threat to an aircraft. Additional screening includes a pat-down and explosives detection screening of accessible property. The passenger will only be allowed into the sterile area after successfully undergoing screening at the checkpoint.

As demonstrated by recent events in Texas, TSA must retain the ability to use alternative identity verification procedures to ensure that we are able to verify a passenger’s identity. The Federal Security Director responsible for Laredo International Airport and McAllen-Miller International Airport is coordinating with CBP and ICE officials at those airports to ensure proper passenger identification. Additionally, TSA sent a communication to all Federal Security Directors directing them to review the correct passenger verification procedures with their employees.

I appreciate that you took the time to share your concerns with me and hope this information is helpful. Enclosed are responses to the specific questions you posed in your letter. Should you require any additional information, please do not hesitate to contact the Office of Legislative Affairs at (571) 227-2717.

Sincerely yours,

DPS RESPONSES TO
WRITTEN DEPOSITION QUESTIONS PURSUANT TO RULE 30
REGARDING SPECIFIED TOPICS FROM THE UNITED STATES’ NOTICE
OF RULE 30(b)(6) DEPOSITION OF THE TEXAS DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY

The responses to questions 1-277 and 284-303 were prepared by Sheri Gipson, Senior Manager, Records and Enforcement, Customer Support, Driver License Division. The background information requested regarding Ms. Gipson was provided during her deposition taken by the Plaintiffs on June 9, 2014.

The responses to questions 278-273 were prepared by John Crawford, Applications Manager, Licensing Services, Information Technology Division. The background information requested regarding Mr. Crawford was provided during his deposition taken by the Plaintiffs on July 30, 2014.

Questions

Topics 8-11

1. Describe the purpose of the card status field with respect to the DPS database of Texas driver license records.

RESPONSE: The Driver License System (DLS) is built based on person records. Within this record, the person could hold both a Texas driver license and a Texas Identification Card. While there are common data fields that apply to the person and both cards (name and address for example), card status is designed to identify administrative actions that only apply to one card, not the entire person record.
2. Yes or no, does the single fact of having any one of the following card statuses with respect to a Texas driver license record require the license holder to physically give up possession his or her Texas driver license card to DPS:
   - Purged
   - Revoked Sex Offender
   - Voluntary Surrender
   - Voluntary Surrender CSO
   - Denied Texas Limb Waiver
   - Denied Texas Vision Waiver
   - Expired Limb Waiver
   - Expired Vision Waiver
   - Ignition Interlock Required
   - Limb Waiver Needed
   - Required Downgrade
   - Restriction Requires Review
   - Verify Issue Former State
   - Vision Waiver Needed
   - Voluntary Surrender Insurance
   - Voluntary Surrender Medical
   - Returned By Post Office
   - Items Surrendered
   - Documents Needed

RESPONSE: No, there is no requirement that a license holder physically give up possession of a Texas driver license if one of these statuses is listed in the Card Status field. However, a card status of Voluntary Surrender, Voluntary Surrender CSO, Voluntary Surrender Insurance and Voluntary Surrender Medical means the customer has voluntarily surrendered their card.

3. If the answer to question 2 above is yes, please identify which, if any, of the above-listed driver license card statuses require the license holder to physically give up possession his or her Texas driver license card to DPS.

RESPONSE: There is no requirement that a license holder physically give up possession of a Texas driver license if one of these statuses is listed in the Card Status field. However, a card status of Voluntary Surrender, Voluntary Surrender CSO, Voluntary Surrender Insurance and Voluntary Surrender Medical means the customer has voluntarily chosen to surrender their card.

4. Please identify which, if any, of the above-listed driver license card statuses indicate that the license holder does not have actual possession his or her Texas driver license card.

RESPONSE: The Department cannot state whether or not a person has actual possession of his or her Texas driver license.
5. Please identify which, if any, of the above-listed card statuses is apparent on the face of the Texas driver license card.

RESPONSE: None.

6. Please state all reasons why a Texas driver license record could have “Purged” as a card status.

RESPONSE: DLS is based on a person record, so only the driver license record within the person record would be marked with a status of “purged”. This can be added if the card was created as a test card or the card data is deemed as no longer useful.

7. Are Texas driver license records that have “Purged” as a card status ever removed or erased from DPS driver license database?

RESPONSE: Based on current record retention requirements, driver license application data is maintained for 125 years. This action removes the card data from the basic system view in the driver license system (DLS), but the information remains in the database tables.

8. If driver license records with “Purged” listed as the card status are removed or erased from the DPS driver license database, please explain the process for the removal or erasure, including how often such removals or erasures occur.

RESPONSE: This information is not removed or erased from the database tables.

9. When a driver license has a card status of “Purged,” is the license holder permitted, under all applicable rules and procedures, to retain physical possession of the driver license card?

RESPONSE: The person would not be required to surrender the card when this status is added.

10. If it varies, under all applicable rules and procedures, as to whether or not the license holder of a driver license with a card status of “Purged” is permitted to retain physical possession of the driver license card, identify all circumstances in which it would be permissible for the license holder to retain possession of the driver license card.

RESPONSE: Generally when this status is added to the card, there is no actual driver license card. It was either not produced or has been expired for more than two years. If a card does exist, it would not be returned to the Department.

11. If it varies, under all applicable rules and procedures, as to whether or not the license holder of a driver license with a card status of “Purged” is permitted to retain physical possession of the driver license card, identify all circumstances in which it would not be permissible for the license holder to retain possession of the driver license card.

RESPONSE: None.

12. Can a driver license currently marked with a card status of “Purged” still be a valid license according to DPS? Please provide the basis for the response.

RESPONSE: Not for driving purposes. The card was either created as a test or has been expired for more than two years.

13. Please list and explain all reasons why a card status of “Purged” could be removed from a driver license record.

RESPONSE: This status would only be removed if it was placed on the card in error. This action removes the card status from the basic system view of the record, but the information relating to the addition and removal of this status is maintained in the DLS database tables.

14. When a card status of “Purged” that was once placed on a driver license record is removed, does the removal of that card status have any effect on whether the driver is legally entitled to physically possess the license?

RESPONSE: For practical purposes there is no effect; however, I cannot answer to the legal entitlement as it requires legal review and conclusion.

15. Once the card status “Purged” is removed from a non-expired driver license record, would the license holder be permitted to have physical possession of the license?

RESPONSE: Yes. There is no requirement that a license holder physically give up possession of a Texas driver license if one of these statuses is listed in the Card Status field.

16. If physical possession of a driver license as between the license holder and DPS varies for licenses that at one time had a card status of “Purged,” but later had that card status removed, please explain when DPS would possess the licenses versus when the license holder would possess the license.

RESPONSE: There are no variances; the status does not require surrender of the driver license card.

17. When a driver license has a card status of “Revoked Sex Offender,” is the license holder permitted, under all applicable rules and procedures, to retain physical possession of the driver license card?

RESPONSE: Yes.
18. If it varies, under all applicable rules and procedures, as to whether or not the license holder of a driver license with a card status of “Revoked Sex Offender” is permitted to retain physical possession of the driver license card, identify all circumstances in which it would be permissible for the license holder to retain possession of the driver license card.

RESPONSE: The license holder would be permitted to retain possession of the driver license card with this status.

19. If it varies, under all applicable rules and procedures, as to whether or not the license holder of a driver license with a card status of “Revoked Sex Offender” is permitted to retain physical possession of the driver license card, identify all circumstances in which it would not be permissible for the license holder to retain possession of the driver license card.

RESPONSE: None.

20. Can a driver license currently marked with a card status of “Revoked Sex Offender” still be a valid license according to DPS? Please provide the basis for the response.

RESPONSE: Not for driving purposes. The driving privileges are revoked until the customer complies with statute by applying for an updated driver license card. It is valid for identity purposes as long as it is not expired or is within allowable limits of expiration and has not been cancelled due to fraud.

21. Please list and explain all reasons why a card status of “Revoked Sex Offender” could be removed from a driver license record.

RESPONSE: The card status is removed once the customer has complied with statute by applying for an updated card, when the customer is no longer required to comply with registration requirements or when the status was placed on the record in error. This action removes the card status from the basic system view of the record, but the information relating to the addition and removal of this status is maintained in the DLS database tables.

22. When a card status of “Revoked Sex Offender” that was once placed on a driver license record is removed, does the removal of that card status have any effect on whether the driver is legally entitled to physically possess the license?

RESPONSE: For practical purposes there is no effect; however, I cannot answer to the legal entitlement as it requires legal review and conclusion.

23. Once the card status “Revoked Sex Offender” is removed from a non-expired driver license record, would the license holder be permitted to have physical possession of the license?
RESPONSE: Yes.

24. If physical possession of a driver license as between the license holder and DPS varies for licenses that at one time had a card status of “Revoked Sex Offender,” but later had that card status removed, please explain when DPS would possess the licenses versus when the license holder would possess the license.

RESPONSE: There are no variances; the status does not require surrender of the driver license card.

25. Please state all reasons why a Texas driver license record could have “Voluntary Surrender” as a card status.

RESPONSE: This status is placed on the card when the customer has chosen to voluntarily surrender the driver license card and their driving privileges. The Department does not require the customer to tell us why they are surrendering the driver license card. As such, it is not possible to list all reasons why a record could have this card status listed.

26. When a driver license has a card status of “Voluntary Surrender,” is the license holder permitted, under all applicable rules and procedures, to retain physical possession of the driver license card?

RESPONSE: The card status of “Voluntary Surrender” is entered into the record after the customer has voluntarily surrendered possession of the driver license card to the Department. This is merely the documentation in the record of an event initiated by the customer. This does not involve the element of the license holder being “permitted” to retain possession of the card.

27. If it varies, under all applicable rules and procedures, as to whether or not the license holder of a driver license with a card status of “Voluntary Surrender” is permitted to retain physical possession of the driver license card, identify all circumstances in which it would be permissible for the license holder to retain possession of the driver license card.

RESPONSE: None.

28. If it varies, under all applicable rules and procedures, as to whether or not the license holder of a driver license with a card status of “Voluntary Surrender” is permitted to retain physical possession of the driver license card, identify all circumstances in which it would not be permissible for the license holder to retain possession of the driver license card.

RESPONSE: If a customer chooses to voluntarily surrender possession of their driver license they would no longer retain possession.
29. Can a driver license currently marked with a card status of “Voluntary Surrender” still be a valid license according to DPS? Please provide the basis for the response.

RESPONSE: If the driver license card is marked with a card status of voluntary surrender and there is no removal date, the card is not valid for driving purposes.

30. Please list and explain all reasons why a card status of “Voluntary Surrender” could be removed from a driver license record.

RESPONSE: When the applicant chooses to come in and reapply for a driver license or if it was placed on the record in error.

31. When a card status of “Voluntary Surrender” that was once placed on a driver license record is removed, does the removal of that card status have any effect on whether the driver is legally entitled to physically possess the license?

RESPONSE: For practical purposes the removal of the card status would result in the reissuance of the driver license card; however, I cannot answer to the legal entitlement as it requires legal review and conclusion.

32. Once the card status “Voluntary Surrender” is removed from a non-expired driver license record, would the license holder be permitted to have physical possession of the license?

RESPONSE: Yes.

33. If physical possession of a driver license as between the license holder and DPS varies for licenses that at one time had a card status of “Voluntary Surrender,” but later had that card status removed, please explain when DPS would possess the licenses versus when the license holder would possess the license.

RESPONSE: If a license holder has voluntarily surrendered possession of the card then DPS would have physical possession of the card. If the license holder decides to reinstate the license then the license holder would have possession of the card.

34. Please state any and all reasons why a Texas driver license record could have a current card status of “Voluntary Surrender” while not having any value entered in the License Surrendered field.

RESPONSE: A driver license record may or may not have a value in both the “license surrendered” field and a card status of “voluntary surrender”, but the two are not connected – see response to question number 35.

35. Does having “Voluntary Surrender” indicated in the card status field indicate something different than having a value entered in the License Surrendered field? If so, what is the difference between the two?
RESPONSE: Yes. Voluntary surrender card status is added to the record based on a customer's action to voluntarily surrender their driver license card and driving privileges. The license surrendered field is an informational field that is part of an administrative license revocation action. This field has 3 options, (1) license surrendered (2) license not surrendered or (3) unknown.

36. What does it mean for a Texas driver license record to have a card status of "Voluntary Surrender CSO"?

RESPONSE: Texas statute, Article 62 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, requires individuals to maintain a valid driver license or identification card. When a customer possesses both a driver license and identification card, they sometimes elect to only maintain one card. Placing this status on the 2\textsuperscript{nd} card type maintains the record of the 2\textsuperscript{nd} card but prohibits the driver license system processes from applying revocation notices and enforcement actions for non-compliance.

37. What does "CSO" in the above card status stand for?

RESPONSE: Classified Sex Offender.

38. Please state all reasons why a Texas driver license record could have "Voluntary Surrender CSO" as a card status.

RESPONSE: When the customer has both a Texas driver license and a Texas identification card and they choose to only maintain one card type.

39. When a driver license has a card status of "Voluntary Surrender CSO," is the license holder permitted, under all applicable rules and procedures, to retain physical possession of the driver license card?

RESPONSE: The card status of "Voluntary Surrender Medical" is entered into the record after the customer has voluntarily surrendered possession of the driver license card to the Department. This is merely the documentation in the record of an event initiated by the customer. This does not involve the element of the license holder being "permitted" to retain possession of the card.

40. If it varies, under all applicable rules and procedures, as to whether or not the license holder of a driver license with a card status of "Voluntary Surrender CSO" is permitted to retain physical possession of the driver license card, identify all circumstances in which it would be permissible for the license holder to retain possession of the driver license card.

RESPONSE: None
41. If it varies, under all applicable rules and procedures, as to whether or not the license holder of a driver license with a card status of "Voluntary Surrender CSO" is permitted to retain physical possession of the driver license card, identify all circumstances in which it would not be permissible for the license holder to retain possession of the driver license card.

RESPONSE: Anytime a customer chooses to voluntary surrender physical possession of their driver license card.

42. Can a driver license currently marked with a card status of "Voluntary Surrender CSO" still be a valid license according to DPS? Please provide the basis for the response.

RESPONSE: If the driver license card is marked with a card status of voluntary surrender CSO and there is no removal date, the card is not valid for driving purposes.

43. Please list and explain all reasons why a card status of "Voluntary Surrender CSO" could be removed from a driver license record.

RESPONSE: When an applicant chooses to come in and reapply for a driver license or if it was placed on the record in error.

44. When a card status of "Voluntary Surrender CSO" that was once placed on a driver license record is removed, does the removal of that card status have any effect on whether the driver is legally entitled to physically possess the license?

RESPONSE: For practical purposes the removal of the card status would result in the reissuance of the driver license card; however, I cannot answer to the legal entitlement as it requires legal review and conclusion.

45. Once the card status "Voluntary Surrender CSO" is removed from a non-expired driver license record, would the license holder be permitted to have physical possession of the license?

RESPONSE: Yes

46. If physical possession of a driver license as between the license holder and DPS varies for licenses that at one time had a card status of "Voluntary Surrender CSO," but later had that card status removed, please explain when DPS would possess the licenses versus when the license holder would possess the license.

RESPONSE: If a license holder has voluntarily surrendered possession of the card then DPS would have physical possession of the card. If the license holder decides to reinstate the license then the license holder would have possession of the card.

47. Please state any and all reasons why a Texas driver license record could have a current card status of “Voluntary Surrender CSO” while not having any value entered in the License Surrendered field.

RESPONSE: A driver license record may or may not have a value in both the “Voluntary Surrender CSO” field and a card status of “License surrendered”, but the two are not connected – see response to question number 48.

48. Does having “Voluntary Surrender” indicated in the card status field indicate something different than having a value entered in the License Surrendered field? If so, what is the difference between the two?

RESPONSE: Yes. Voluntary Surrender CSO card status is added to the record based on a customer’s action to voluntarily surrender their driver license card and driving privileges. The license surrendered field is an informational field that is part of an administrative license revocation action. This field has 3 options, (1) license surrendered (2) license not surrendered or (3) unknown.

49. What is a “Texas Limb Waiver”?

RESPONSE: This waiver is granted to a Texas Commercial driver who does not meet the physical requirements under the code of federal regulations, administered by the Federal Motor Carrier Safety Administration (FMCSA) and allows that driver to operate a commercial motor vehicle within the State of Texas.

50. What does it mean for a Texas driver license record to have a card status of “Denied Texas Limb Waiver”?

RESPONSE: This customer has applied for a waiver and has been denied based on a review of the application and their driver record.

51. Please state all reasons why a Texas driver license record could have “Denied Texas Limb Waiver” as a card status.

RESPONSE: See response to question number 50.

52. When a driver license has a card status of “Denied Texas Limb Waiver,” is the license holder permitted, under all applicable rules and procedures, to retain physical possession of the driver license card?

RESPONSE: Yes.

53. If it varies, under all applicable rules and procedures, as to whether or not the license holder of a driver license with a card status of “Denied Texas Limb Waiver” is permitted to retain physical possession of the driver license card, identify all circumstances in which it would be permissible for the license holder to retain possession of the driver license card.

RESPONSE: The license holder would be permitted to retain possession of the driver license card with this status.

54. If it varies, under all applicable rules and procedures, as to whether or not the license holder of a driver license with a card status of “Denied Texas Limb Waiver” is permitted to retain physical possession of the driver license card, identify all circumstances in which it would not be permissible for the license holder to retain possession of the driver license card.

RESPONSE: None

55. Can a driver license currently marked with a card status of “Denied Texas Limb Waiver” still be a valid license according to DPS? Please provide the basis for the response.

RESPONSE: The driver license is considered valid for operating non-commercial vehicles and is valid for identity purposes as long as it is not expired or is within allowable limits of expiration and has not been cancelled due to fraud.

56. Please list and explain all reasons why a card status of “Denied Texas Limb Waiver” could be removed from a driver license record.

RESPONSE: If the driver license is changed from a commercial driver license to non-commercial driver license, if their physical status changes, if their application is eligible for review or if it was entered in error.

57. When a card status of “Denied Texas Limb Waiver” that was once placed on a driver license record is removed, does the removal of that card status have any effect on whether the driver is legally entitled to physically possess the license?

RESPONSE: For practical purposes there is no effect; however, I cannot answer to the legal entitlement as it requires legal review and conclusion

58. Once the card status “Denied Texas Limb Waiver” is removed from a non-expired driver license record, would the license holder be permitted to have physical possession of the license?

RESPONSE: Yes. This card status does not have an effect on possession of the license.

59. If physical possession of a driver license as between the license holder and DPS varies for licenses that at one time had a card status of “Denied Texas Limb Waiver,” but later had that card status removed, please explain when DPS would possess the licenses versus when the license holder would possess the license.

RESPONSE: There are no variances; the status does not require surrender of the driver license card.

60. What is a “Texas Vision Waiver”?

RESPONSE: This waiver is granted to a Texas Commercial driver who does not meet the vision requirements under the code of federal regulations, administered by the Federal Motor Carrier Safety Administration (FMCSA) and allows that driver to operate a commercial motor vehicle within the State of Texas.

61. What does it mean for a Texas driver license record to have a card status of “Denied Texas Vision Waiver”?

RESPONSE: The customer has applied for a waiver and has been denied based on a review of the application and their driver record.

RESPONSE: The customer has complied by applying for a new driver license card or it was entered on the record in error.

115. When a card status of “Required Downgrade” that was once placed on a driver license record is removed, does the removal of that card status have any effect on whether the driver is legally entitled to physically possess the license?

RESPONSE: For practical purposes there is no effect; however, I cannot answer to the legal entitlement as it requires legal review and conclusion.

116. Once the card status “Required Downgrade” is removed from a non-expired driver license record, would the license holder be permitted to have physical possession of the license?

RESPONSE: Yes.

117. If physical possession of a driver license as between the license holder and DPS varies for licenses that at one time had a card status of “Required Downgrade,” but later had that card status removed, please explain when DPS would possess the licenses versus when the license holder would possess the license.
RESPONSE: There are no variances; the status does not require surrender of the driver license card.

118. What does it mean for a Texas driver license record to have a card status of “Restriction Requires Review”?

RESPONSE: This is generally applied to a driver license card when a medical issue that affects the operation of certain motor vehicles has been identified and the medical advisory board has determined that certain restrictions should be placed on the driving privileges.

119. Please state all reasons why a Texas driver license record could have “Restriction Requires Review” as a card status.

RESPONSE: See response to question number 118.

120. When a driver license has a card status of “Restriction Requires Review,” is the license holder permitted, under all applicable rules and procedures, to retain physical possession of the driver license card?

RESPONSE: Yes.

121. If it varies, under all applicable rules and procedures, as to whether or not the license holder of a driver license with a card status of “Restriction Requires Review” is permitted to retain physical possession of the driver license card, identify all circumstances in which it would be permissible for the license holder to retain possession of the driver license card.

RESPONSE: The license holder would be permitted to retain possession of the driver license card with this status.

122. If it varies, under all applicable rules and procedures, as to whether or not the license holder of a driver license with a card status of “Restriction Requires Review” is permitted to retain physical possession of the driver license card, identify all circumstances in which it would not be permissible for the license holder to retain possession of the driver license card.

RESPONSE: None.

123. Can a driver license currently marked with a card status of “Restriction Requires Review” still be a valid license according to DPS? Please provide the basis for the response.

RESPONSE: Driving privileges are valid for 60 days. If the customer fails to obtain a new driver license card with the appropriate restrictions, driving privileges are suspended. It is valid for identity purposes as long as it is not expired or is within allowable limits of expiration and has not been cancelled due to fraud.

RESPONSE: The customer has complied by applying for a new driver license card or it was entered on the record in error.

125. When a card status of “Restriction Requires Review” that was once placed on a driver license record is removed, does the removal of that card status have any effect on whether the driver is legally entitled to physically possess the license?

RESPONSE: For practical purposes there is no effect; however, I cannot answer to the legal entitlement as it requires legal review and conclusion.

126. Once the card status “Restriction Requires Review” is removed from a non-expired driver license record, would the license holder be permitted to have physical possession of the license?

RESPONSE: Yes

127. If physical possession of a driver license as between the license holder and DPS varies for licenses that at one time had a card status of “Restriction Requires Review,” but later had that card status removed, please explain when DPS would possess the licenses versus when the license holder would possess the license.

RESPONSE: There are no variances, the status does not require surrender of the driver license card.

128. What does it mean for a Texas driver license record to have a card status of “Verify Issue Former State”?

RESPONSE: There has been a potential issue identified (pending or current enforcement action) with the customer’s driving privileges in the state where they held a driver license before obtaining a Texas driver license.

129. Please state all reasons why a Texas driver license record could be marked with “Verify Issue Former State” as a card status.

RESPONSE: See response to question number 128.

130. When a driver license has a card status of “Verify Issue Former State,” is the license holder permitted, under all applicable rules and procedures, to retain physical possession of the driver license card?
RESPONSE: Yes.

131. If it varies, under all applicable rules and procedures, as to whether or not the license holder of a driver license with a card status of “Verify Issue Former State” is permitted to retain physical possession of the driver license card, identify all circumstances in which it would be permissible for the license holder to retain possession of the driver license card.

RESPONSE: The license holder would be permitted to retain possession of the driver license card with this status.

132. If it varies, under all applicable rules and procedures, as to whether or not the license holder of a driver license with a card status of “Verify Issue Former State” is permitted to retain physical possession of the driver license card, identify all circumstances in which it would not be permissible for the license holder to retain possession of the driver license card.

RESPONSE: None.

133. Can a driver license currently marked with a card status of “Verify Issue Former State” still be a valid license according to DPS? Please provide the basis for the response.

RESPONSE: It is considered valid for driving privileges as long as the driver license card is not expired and there are no other actions on the driver record that would affect driving privileges. It is valid for identity purposes as long as it is not expired or is within allowable limits of expiration and has not been cancelled due to fraud.

134. Please list and explain all reasons why a card status of “Verify Issue Former State” could be removed from a driver license record.

RESPONSE: The issue with the former state was resolved, it was determined that the drivers were two different people or the status was placed on the record in error.

135. When a card status of “Verify Issue Former State” that was once placed on a driver license record is removed, does the removal of that card status have any effect on whether the driver is legally entitled to physically possess the license?

RESPONSE: For practical purposes there is no effect; however, I cannot answer to the legal entitlement as it requires legal review and conclusion.

136. Once the card status “Verify Issue Former State” is removed from a non-expired driver license record, would the license holder be permitted to have physical possession of the license?

RESPONSE: Yes.
137. If physical possession of a driver license as between the license holder and DPS varies for licenses that at one time had a card status of “Verify Issue Former State,” but later had that card status removed, please explain when DPS would possess the licenses versus when the license holder would possess the license.

RESPONSE: There are no variances; the status does not require surrender of the driver license card.

138. What does it mean for a Texas driver license record to have a card status of “Vision Waiver Needed”?

RESPONSE: This status is added to a driver license card when the customer has been approved for a vision waiver but needs to obtain an updated driver license card with the appropriate restrictions.

139. When a driver license has a card status of “Vision Waiver Needed,” is the license holder permitted, under all applicable rules and procedures, to retain physical possession of the driver license card?

RESPONSE: Yes.

140. If it varies, under all applicable rules and procedures, as to whether or not the license holder of a driver license with a card status of “Vision Waiver Needed” is permitted to retain physical possession of the driver license card, identify all circumstances in which it would be permissible for the license holder to retain possession of the driver license card.

RESPONSE: The license holder would be permitted to retain possession of the driver license card with this status.

141. If it varies, under all applicable rules and procedures, as to whether or not the license holder of a driver license with a card status of “Vision Waiver Needed” is permitted to retain physical possession of the driver license card, identify all circumstances in which it would not be permissible for the license holder to retain possession of the driver license card.

RESPONSE: None

142. Can a driver license currently marked with a card status of “Vision Waiver Needed” still be a valid license according to DPS? Please provide the basis for the response.

RESPONSE: Driving privileges are valid for 60 days from the date the status is added to the driver license card. If the customer fails to obtain an updated driver license card within that time period, driving privileges are cancelled. It is valid for identity purposes as long as it is not expired or is within allowable limits of expiration and has not been cancelled due to fraud.

143. Please list and explain all reasons why a card status of “Vision Waiver Needed” could be removed from a driver license record.

RESPONSE: If the driver license is changed from a commercial driver license to non-commercial driver license, if the updated driver license card is obtained, or if it was entered in error.

144. When a card status of “Vision Waiver Needed” that was once placed on a driver license record is removed, does the removal of that card status have any effect on whether the driver is legally entitled to physically possess the license?

RESPONSE: For practical purposes there is no effect; however, I cannot answer to the legal entitlement as it requires legal review and conclusion.

145. Once the card status “Vision Waiver Needed” is removed from a non-expired driver license record, would the license holder be permitted to have physical possession of the license?

RESPONSE: Yes.

146. If physical possession of a driver license as between the license holder and DPS varies for licenses that at one time had a card status of “Vision Waiver Needed,” but later had that card status removed, please explain when DPS would possess the licenses versus when the license holder would possess the license.

RESPONSE: There are no variances, the status does not require surrender of the driver license card.

147. What does it mean for a Texas driver license record to have a card status of “Voluntary Surrender Insurance”?

RESPONSE: This status is placed on the card when the customer has chosen to voluntarily surrender the driver license card and their driving privileges for purposes of insurance.

148. Please state all reasons why a Texas driver license record could be marked with “Voluntary Surrender Insurance” as a card status.

RESPONSE: See response to question number 147.

149. When a driver license has a card status of “Voluntary Surrender Insurance,” is the license holder permitted, under all applicable rules and procedures, to retain physical possession of the driver license card?
RESPONSE: The card status of “Voluntary Surrender Insurance” is entered into the record after the customer has voluntarily surrendered possession of the driver license card to the Department. This is merely the documentation in the record of an event initiated by the customer. This does not involve the element of the license holder being “permitted” to retain possession of the card.

150. If it varies, under all applicable rules and procedures, as to whether or not the license holder of a driver license with a card status of “Voluntary Surrender Insurance” is permitted to retain physical possession of the driver license card, identify all circumstances in which it would be permissible for the license holder to retain possession of the driver license card.

RESPONSE: None.

151. If it varies, under all applicable rules and procedures, as to whether or not the license holder of a driver license with a card status of “Voluntary Surrender Insurance” is permitted to retain physical possession of the driver license card, identify all circumstances in which it would not be permissible for the license holder to retain possession of the driver license card.

RESPONSE: Anytime a customer chooses to voluntarily surrender their driver license card.

152. Can a driver license currently marked with a card status of “Voluntary Surrender Insurance” still be a valid license according to DPS? Please provide the basis for the response.

RESPONSE: If the driver license card is marked with a card status of voluntary surrender insurance and there is no removal date, the card is not valid for driving purposes and the driver license card would have been voluntarily surrendered.

153. Please list and explain all reasons why a card status of “Voluntary Surrender Insurance” could be removed from a driver license record.

RESPONSE: When the applicant chooses to come in and reapply for a driver license or if it was placed on the record in error.

154. When a card status of “Voluntary Surrender Insurance” that was once placed on a driver license record is removed, does the removal of that card status have any effect on whether the driver is legally entitled to physically possess the license?

RESPONSE: For practical purposes the removal of the card status would result in the reissuance of the driver license card; however, I cannot answer to the legal entitlement as it requires legal review and conclusion.

155. Once the card status “Voluntary Surrender Insurance” is removed from a non-expired driver license record, would the license holder be permitted to have physical possession of the license?

RESPONSE: Yes.

156. If physical possession of a driver license as between the license holder and DPS varies for licenses that at one time had a card status of “Voluntary Surrender Insurance,” but later had that card status removed, please explain when DPS would possess the licenses versus when the license holder would possess the license.

RESPONSE: If a license holder has voluntarily surrendered possession of the card then DPS would have physical possession of the card. If the license holder decides to reinstate the license then the license holder would have possession of the card.

157. Please state any and all reasons why a Texas driver license record could have a current card status of “Voluntary Surrender Insurance” while not having any value entered in the License Surrendered field.

RESPONSE: A driver license record may or may not have a value in both the “Voluntary Surrender Insurance” field and a card status of “License Surrendered”, but the two are not connected – see response to number 158.

158. Does having “Voluntary Surrender Insurance” indicated in the card status field indicate something different than having a value entered in the License Surrendered field? If so, what is the difference between the two?

RESPONSE: Yes. Voluntary Surrender Insurance card status is added to the record based on a customer’s action to voluntarily surrender their driver license card and driving privileges. The license surrendered field is an informational field that is part of an administrative license revocation action. This field has 3 options, (1) license surrendered (2) license not surrendered or (3) unknown.

159. What does it mean for a Texas driver license record to have a card status of “Voluntary Surrender Medical”?

RESPONSE: When it is determined that there is a potential medical issue that will affect the ability of an individual to safely operate a motor vehicle, there is a process that the customer must go through to maintain their driver license and driving privileges. If they decide that they do not want to complete that process and voluntarily surrender the driver license card and driving privileges, this status is placed on the driver license card.

160. Please state all reasons why a Texas driver license record could be marked with “Voluntary Surrender Medical” as a card status.
RESPONSE: See response to question number 159.

161. When a driver license has a card status of “Voluntary Surrender Medical,” is the license holder permitted, under all applicable rules and procedures, to retain physical possession of the driver license card?

RESPONSE: The card status of “Voluntary Surrender Medical” is entered into the record after the customer has voluntarily surrendered possession of the driver license card to the Department. This is merely the documentation in the record of an event initiated by the customer. This does not involve the element of the license holder being “permitted” to retain possession of the card.

162. If it varies, under all applicable rules and procedures, as to whether or not the license holder of a driver license with a card status of “Voluntary Surrender Medical” is permitted to retain physical possession of the driver license card, identify all circumstances in which it would be permissible for the license holder to retain possession of the driver license card.

RESPONSE: None.

163. If it varies, under all applicable rules and procedures, as to whether or not the license holder of a driver license with a card status of “Voluntary Surrender Medical” is permitted to retain physical possession of the driver license card, identify all circumstances in which it would not be permissible for the license holder to retain possession of the driver license card.

RESPONSE: Anytime a customer chooses to voluntarily surrender their driver license card.

164. Can a driver license currently marked with a card status of “Voluntary Surrender Medical” still be a valid license according to DPS? Please provide the basis for the response.

RESPONSE: If the driver license card is marked with a card status of voluntary surrender and there is no removal date, the card is not valid for driving purposes and the driver license card would have been voluntarily surrendered.

165. Please list and explain all reasons why a card status of “Voluntary Surrender Medical” could be removed from a driver license record.

RESPONSE: When an applicant chooses to come in and reapply for a driver license or if it was placed on the record in error.

166. When a card status of “Voluntary Surrender Medical” that was once placed on a driver license record is removed, does the removal of that card status have any effect on whether the driver is legally entitled to physically possess the license?
RESPONSE: For practical purposes the removal of the card status may result in the reissuance of the driver license card; however, I cannot answer to the legal entitlement as it requires legal review and conclusion.

167. Once the card status “Voluntary Surrender Medical” is removed from a non-expired driver license record, would the license holder be permitted to have physical possession of the license?

RESPONSE: Yes.

168. If physical possession of a driver license as between the license holder and DPS varies for licenses that at one time had a card status of “Voluntary Surrender Medical,” but later had that card status removed, please explain when DPS would possess the licenses versus when the license holder would possess the license.

RESPONSE: If a license holder has voluntarily surrendered possession of the card then DPS would have physical possession of the card. If the license holder decides to reinstate the license then the license holder would have possession of the card.

169. Please state any and all reasons why a Texas driver license record could have a current card status of “Voluntary Surrender Medical” while not having any value entered in the License Surrendered field.

RESPONSE: A driver license record may or may not have a value in both the “license surrendered” field and a card status of “voluntary surrender medical”, but the two statuses are not connected – see response to question number 170.

170. Does having “Voluntary Surrender Medical” indicated in the card status field indicate something different than having a value entered in the License Surrendered field? If so, what is the difference between the two?

RESPONSE: Yes. Voluntary Surrender Medical card status is added to the record based on a customer’s action to voluntarily surrender their driver license card and driving privileges. The License Surrendered field is an informational field that is part of an administrative license revocation action. This field has 3 options, (1) license surrendered (2) license not surrendered or (3) unknown.

171. What does it mean for a Texas driver license record to have a card status of “Returned by Post Office”?

RESPONSE: The post office returned a driver license card that was mailed to the customer by the Department.

172. Please state all reasons why a Texas driver license record could be marked with “Returned by Post Office” as a card status.

RESPONSE: See response to question number 171.

173. When a driver license has a card status of “Returned by Post Office,” is the license holder permitted, under all applicable rules and procedures, to retain physical possession of the driver license card?

RESPONSE: The actual card is returned to the Department and destroyed, so possession of that card would not be possible, but the customer could still potentially have possession of the temporary driving permit or a previous or subsequently issued driver license card. That information cannot be determined from this particular field.

174. If it varies, under all applicable rules and procedures, as to whether or not the license holder of a driver license with a card status of “Returned by Post Office” is permitted to retain physical possession of the driver license card, identify all circumstances in which it would be permissible for the license holder to retain possession of the driver license card.

RESPONSE: See response to question number 173.

175. If it varies, under all applicable rules and procedures, as to whether or not the license holder of a driver license with a card status of “Returned by Post Office” is permitted to retain physical possession of the driver license card, identify all circumstances in which it would not be permissible for the license holder to retain possession of the driver license card.

RESPONSE: Since the card was returned by the post office, the customer would not have possession of that particular driver license card.

176. Can a driver license currently marked with a card status of “Returned by Post Office” still be a valid license according to DPS? Please provide the basis for the response.

RESPONSE: Since the card was returned by the post office, the customer would not have possession of that particular driver license card, but driving privileges would still be valid.

177. Please list and explain all reasons why a card status of “Returned by Post Office” could be removed from a driver license record.

RESPONSE: If it was placed on the record in error.

178. When a card status of “Returned by Post Office” that was once placed on a driver license record is removed, does the removal of that card status have any effect on whether the driver is legally entitled to physically possess the license?
RESPONSE: For practical purposes there is no effect as the card status is not removed; however, I cannot answer to the legal entitlement as it requires legal review and conclusion.

179. Once the card status “Returned by Post Office” is removed from a non-expired driver license record, would the license holder be permitted to have physical possession of the license?

RESPONSE: This status is not removed, it is maintained for administrative reasons and to determine the number of times a driver license card from a particular transaction has been remade and re-mailed.

180. If physical possession of a driver license as between the license holder and DPS varies for licenses that at one time had a card status of “Returned by Post Office,” but later had that card status removed, please explain when DPS would possess the licenses versus when the license holder would possess the license.

RESPONSE: There are no variances, the status indicates the card was returned and destroyed.

181. What does it mean for a Texas driver license record to have a card status of “Items Surrendered”?

RESPONSE: This status is placed on a driver license card when a driver license card is surrendered to a law enforcement agency or court and the card was returned to the Department.

182. Please state all reasons why a Texas driver license record could be marked with “Items Surrendered” as a card status.

RESPONSE: See response to question number 181.

183. When a driver license has a card status of “Items Surrendered,” is the license holder permitted, under all applicable rules and procedures, to retain physical possession of the driver license card?

RESPONSE: The driver license card has been surrendered and destroyed, so the customer would not have physical possession of that card, but the customer could still potentially have possession of a temporary driving permit or a previous or subsequently issued driver license card. That information cannot be determined from an entry in this particular field.

184. If it varies, under all applicable rules and procedures, as to whether or not the license holder of a driver license with a card status of “Items Surrendered” is permitted to retain physical possession of the driver license card, identify all circumstances in which it would be permissible for the license holder to retain possession of the driver license card.

RESPONSE: See response to question number 183.

185. If it varies, under all applicable rules and procedures, as to whether or not the license holder of a driver license with a card status of “Items Surrendered” is permitted to retain physical possession of the driver license card, identify all circumstances in which it would not be permissible for the license holder to retain possession of the driver license card.

RESPONSE: Possession would be permissible, but since the card was surrendered and destroyed, the customer would not have possession of that particular driver license card. However, the customer could still potentially have possession of a temporary driving permit or a previous or subsequently issued driver license card.

186. Can a driver license currently marked with a card status of “Items Surrendered” still be a valid license according to DPS? Please provide the basis for the response.

RESPONSE: Since the card was surrendered, the customer would not have possession of that particular driver license card, but driving privileges would still be valid unless there is an active enforcement action that has removed driving privileges.

187. Please list and explain all reasons why a card status of “Items Surrendered” could be removed from a driver license record.

RESPONSE: If the status was entered on the record in error.

188. When a card status of “Items Surrendered” that was once placed on a driver license record is removed, does the removal of that card status have any effect on whether the driver is legally entitled to physically possess the license?

RESPONSE: For practical purposes there is no effect as the card status is not removed; however, I cannot answer to the legal entitlement as it requires legal review and conclusion.

189. Once the card status “Items Surrendered” is removed from a non-expired driver license record, would the license holder be permitted to have physical possession of the license?

RESPONSE: The status is not removed, it is kept for administrative purposes; however, the driver license card can be reissued providing there is not an active enforcement action that would prohibit the issuance of a driver license.

190. If physical possession of a driver license as between the license holder and DPS varies for licenses that at one time had a card status of “Items Surrendered,” but later had that card status removed, please explain when DPS would possess the licenses versus when the license holder would possess the license.

RESPONSE: There are no variances, the status indicates the card was surrendered and destroyed.

191. What does it mean for a Texas driver license record to have a card status of “Documents Needed”?

RESPONSE: This status is added to the driver license card when it is determined that some type of documentation is needed before the card can be reissued again. The details contained in other fields indicate what information is needed and who to contact for assistance. It can be anything from the need for a particular form to be completed and/or signed or a request for additional documentation related to identity, citizenship, residency, etc.

192. Please state all reasons why a Texas driver license record could be marked with “Documents Needed” as a card status.

RESPONSE: See response to question number 191.

193. When a driver license has a card status of “Documents Needed,” is the license holder permitted, under all applicable rules and procedures, to retain physical possession of the driver license card?

RESPONSE: Yes.

194. If it varies, under all applicable rules and procedures, as to whether or not the license holder of a driver license with a card status of “Documents Needed” is permitted to retain physical possession of the driver license card, identify all circumstances in which it would be permissible for the license holder to retain possession of the driver license card.

RESPONSE: The license holder would be permitted to retain possession of the driver license card with this status.

195. If it varies, under all applicable rules and procedures, as to whether or not the license holder of a driver license with a card status of “Documents Needed” is permitted to retain physical possession of the driver license card, identify all circumstances in which it would not be permissible for the license holder to retain possession of the driver license card.

RESPONSE: None.

196. Can a driver license currently marked with a card status of “Documents Needed” still be a valid license according to DPS? Please provide the basis for the response.

Yes. It is considered valid for driving privileges as long as there are no other actions on the driver record that would affect driving privileges. It is valid for identity purposes so long as it is not expired or is within allowable limits of expiration and has not been cancelled due to fraud.

197. Please list and explain all reasons why a card status of “Documents Needed” could be removed from a driver license record.

RESPONSE: Once the customer has complied by providing the document or if it was placed on the record in error.

198. When a card status of “Documents Needed” that was once placed on a driver license record is removed, does the removal of that card status have any effect on whether the driver is legally entitled to physically possess the license?

RESPONSE: For practical purposes there is no effect; however, I cannot answer to the legal entitlement as it requires legal review and conclusion.

199. Once the card status “Documents Needed” is removed from a non-expired driver license record, would the license holder be permitted to have physical possession of the license?

RESPONSE: Yes.

200. If physical possession of a driver license as between the license holder and DPS varies for licenses that at one time had a card status of “Documents Needed,” but later had that card status removed, please explain when DPS would possess the licenses versus when the license holder would possess the license.

RESPONSE: There are no variances; the status does not require surrender of the driver license card.

Topics 12-15

201. What is the purpose of the card status field with respect to the DPS database of Texas ID card records?

RESPONSE: The Driver License System is built based on person records. Within this record, the person could hold both a Texas driver license and a Texas Identification Card. While there are common data fields that apply to the person and both cards (name and address for example), card status is designed to identify administrative actions that only apply to one card, not the entire person record.
202. Yes or no, does having any one of the following card statuses with respect to a Texas ID card record require the license holder to physically give up possession his or her Texas ID card to DPS:

- Purged
- Revoked Sex Offender
- Voluntary Surrender
- Voluntary Surrender CSO
- Returned By Post Office
- Items Surrendered
- Documents Needed

No, there is no requirement that a license holder physically give up possession of a Texas personal identification card if one of these statuses is listed in the Card Status field. However, a card status of Voluntary Surrender or Voluntary Surrender CSO means the customer has voluntarily surrendered their card.

203. If the answer to question 202 above is yes, please identify which, if any, of the above-listed ID card statuses require the ID card holder to physically give up possession his or her Texas ID card to DPS.

RESPONSE: There is no requirement that a license holder physically give up possession of a Texas personal identification card if one of these statuses is listed in the Card Status field. However, a card status of Voluntary Surrender or Voluntary Surrender CSO means the customer has voluntarily chosen to surrender their card.

204. Please identify which, if any, of the above-listed card statuses indicate that the ID card holder does not have actual possession his or her Texas ID card.

RESPONSE: Voluntary Surrender and Voluntary Surrender CSO.

205. Please identify which, if any, of the above-listed card statuses is apparent on the face of the Texas ID card.

RESPONSE: None.

206. What does it mean for a Texas ID card record to have a card status of “Purged”?

RESPONSE: When this status is added to an identification card record, there are system processes that either initiates notification to other users that the card information is marked for purge or to prohibit certain system functions from processing using that specific card data.

207. Please state all reasons why a Texas ID card record could be marked with “Purged” as a card status.

RESPONSE: DLS is based on a person record, so only the identification card record within the person record would be marked with a status of “purged”. This can be added if the card was created as a test card or the card data is deemed as no longer useful.

208. When a Texas ID card has a card status of “Purged,” is the ID holder permitted, under all applicable rules and procedures, to retain physical possession of the ID card?

RESPONSE: The person would not be required to surrender the card when this status is added.

209. If it varies, under all applicable rules and procedures, as to whether or not the ID holder of an ID with a card status of “Purged” is permitted to retain physical possession of the ID card, identify all circumstances in which it would be permissible for the ID holder to retain possession of the ID card.

RESPONSE: Generally when this status is added to the card, there is no actual identification card. It was either not produced or has been expired for more than two years. If a card does exist, it would not be returned to the Department.

210. If it varies, under all applicable rules and procedures, as to whether or not the ID holder of an ID card with a card status of “Purged” is permitted to retain physical possession of the ID card, identify all circumstances in which it would not be permissible for the ID holder to retain possession of the ID card.

RESPONSE: None

211. Can an ID currently marked with a card status of “Purged” still be a valid ID according to DPS? Please provide the basis for the response.

RESPONSE: Typically this card was either created as a test or has been expired for more than two years so it would not be considered as a valid ID.

212. Please list and explain all reasons why a card status of “Purged” could be removed from an ID card record.

RESPONSE: This status would only be removed if it was placed on the card in error. This action removes the card status from the basic system view of the record, but the information relating to the addition and removal of this status is maintained in the DLS database tables.

213. When a card status of “Purged” that was once placed on an ID card record is removed, does the removal of that card status have any effect on whether the ID holder is legally entitled to physically possess the ID card?
RESPONSE: For practical purposes there is no effect; however, I cannot answer to the legal entitlement as it requires legal review and conclusion.

214. Once the card status “Purged” is removed from a non-expired ID card, would the ID holder be permitted to have physical possession of the ID card?

RESPONSE: Yes.

215. If physical possession of a driver license as between the ID holder and DPS varies for ID cards that at one time had a card status of “Purged,” but later had that card status removed, please explain when DPS would possess the ID card versus when the ID holder would possess the ID card.

RESPONSE: There are no variances; the status does not require surrender of the identification card.

216. What does it mean for a Texas ID card record to have a card status of “Revoked Sex Offender”?

RESPONSE: This is applied to an identification card when the customer has not complied with Code of Criminal Procedure Article 62 which requires them to maintain a valid up to date driver license or identification card.

217. Please state all reasons why a Texas ID card record could be marked with “Revoked Sex Offender” as a card status.

RESPONSE: See response to question number 216.

218. When a Texas ID card has a card status of “Revoked Sex Offender,” is the ID holder permitted, under all applicable rules and procedures, to retain physical possession of the ID card?

RESPONSE: Yes.

219. If it varies, under all applicable rules and procedures, as to whether or not the ID holder of an ID with a card status of “Revoked Sex Offender” is permitted to retain physical possession of the ID card, identify all circumstances in which it would be permissible for the ID holder to retain possession of the ID card.

RESPONSE: The customer would be permitted to retain possession of the identification card with this status.

220. If it varies, under all applicable rules and procedures, as to whether or not the ID holder of an ID card with a card status of “Revoked Sex Offender” is permitted to retain physical possession of the ID card, identify all circumstances in which it would not be permissible for the ID holder to retain possession of the ID card.
RESPONSE: None.

221. Can an ID currently marked with a card status of “Revoked Sex Offender” still be a valid ID according to DPS? Please provide the basis for the response.

RESPONSE: It is valid for identity purposes as long as it is not expired or is within allowable limits of expiration and has not been cancelled due to fraud.

222. Please list and explain all reasons why a card status of “Revoked Sex Offender” could be removed from an ID card record.

RESPONSE: The card status is removed once the customer has complied with statute by applying for an updated card, when the customer is no longer required to comply with registration requirements or when the status was placed on the record in error. This action removes the card status from the basic system view of the record, but the information relating to the addition and removal of this status is maintained in the DLS database tables.

223. When a card status of “Revoked Sex Offender” that was once placed on an ID card record is removed, does the removal of that card status have any effect on whether the ID holder is legally entitled to physically possess the ID card?

RESPONSE: For practical purposes there is no effect; however, I cannot answer to the legal entitlement as it requires legal review and conclusion.

224. Once the card status “Revoked Sex Offender” is removed from a non-expired ID card, would the ID holder be permitted to have physical possession of the ID card?

RESPONSE: Yes, they would be allowed, but the Department cannot state whether or not a person has actual possession of his or her Texas identification card.

225. If physical possession of a driver license as between the ID holder and DPS varies for ID cards that at one time had a card status of “Revoked Sex Offender,” but later had that card status removed, please explain when DPS would possess the ID card versus when the ID holder would possess the ID card.

RESPONSE: There are no variances; the status does not require surrender of the identification card.

226. What does it mean for a Texas ID card record to have a card status of “Voluntary Surrender”?

RESPONSE: This indicates that the customer has chosen to voluntarily surrender the identification card.
227. Please state all reasons why a Texas ID card record could be marked with “Voluntary Surrender” as a card status.

RESPONSE: This status is placed on the card when the customer has chosen to voluntarily surrender the identification card. The Department does not require the customer to tell us why they are surrendering the identification card. As such, it is not possible to state all reasons why a Texas ID card record might be marked with Voluntary Surrender as a card status.

228. When a Texas ID card has a card status of “Voluntary Surrender,” is the ID holder permitted, under all applicable rules and procedures, to retain physical possession of the ID card?

RESPONSE: The card status of “Voluntary Surrender” is entered into the record after the customer has voluntarily surrendered possession of the Texas ID card to the Department. This is merely the documentation in the record of an event initiated by the customer. This does not involve the element of the ID holder being “permitted” to retain possession of the card.

229. If it varies, under all applicable rules and procedures, as to whether or not the ID holder of an ID with a card status of “Voluntary Surrender” is permitted to retain physical possession of the ID card, identify all circumstances in which it would be permissible for the ID holder to retain possession of the ID card.

RESPONSE: None.

230. If it varies, under all applicable rules and procedures, as to whether or not the ID holder of an ID card with a card status of “Voluntary Surrender” is permitted to retain physical possession of the ID card, identify all circumstances in which it would not be permissible for the ID holder to retain possession of the ID card.

RESPONSE: Anytime a customer chooses to voluntarily surrender their identification card.

231. Can an ID currently marked with a card status of “Voluntary Surrender” still be a valid ID according to DPS? Please provide the basis for the response.

RESPONSE: If the identification card is marked with a card status of voluntary surrender and there is no removal date, the card is not valid because the customer chose to surrender the identification card.

232. Please list and explain all reasons why a card status of “Voluntary Surrender” could be removed from an ID card record.

RESPONSE: When the applicant chooses to come in and reapply for an identification card or if it was placed on the record in error.
233. When a card status of “Voluntary Surrender” that was once placed on an ID card record is removed, does the removal of that card status have any effect on whether the ID holder is legally entitled to physically possess the ID card?

RESPONSE: For practical purposes the removal of the card status would result in the reissuance of the identification card; however, I cannot answer to the legal entitlement as it requires legal review and conclusion.

234. Once the card status “Voluntary Surrender” is removed from a non-expired ID card, would the ID holder be permitted to have physical possession of the ID card?

RESPONSE: Yes, they would be allowed, but the Department cannot state whether or not a person has actual possession of his or her Texas identification card.

235. If physical possession of a driver license as between the ID holder and DPS varies for ID cards that at one time had a card status of “Voluntary Surrender,” but later had that card status removed, please explain when DPS would possess the ID card versus when the ID holder would possess the ID card.

RESPONSE: If a Texas ID holder has voluntarily surrendered possession of the card then DPS would have physical possession of the card. If the Texas ID holder decides to reinstate the Texas ID then the ID holder would have possession of the card.

236. What does it mean for a Texas ID card record to have a card status of “Voluntary Surrender CSO”?

RESPONSE: Texas statute, Article 62 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, requires individuals to maintain a valid driver license or identification card. When a customer possesses both card types, they sometimes elect to only maintain one card. Placing this status on the 2nd card type maintains the record of the 2nd card but prohibits the driver license system processes from applying revocation notices and enforcement actions for noncompliance.

237. Please state all reasons why a Texas ID card record could be marked with “Voluntary Surrender CSO” as a card status.

RESPONSE: When the customer has both a Texas driver license and a Texas identification card and they choose to only maintain one card type.

238. When a Texas ID card has a card status of “Voluntary Surrender CSO,” is the ID holder permitted, under all applicable rules and procedures, to retain physical possession of the ID card?

RESPONSE: The card status of “Voluntary Surrender CSO” is entered into the record after the customer has voluntarily surrendered possession of the Texas ID card to the Department. This is merely the documentation in the record of an event initiated by the customer. This does not involve the element of the ID holder being “permitted” to retain possession of the card.

239. If it varies, under all applicable rules and procedures, as to whether or not the ID holder of an ID with a card status of “Voluntary Surrender CSO” is permitted to retain physical possession of the ID card, identify all circumstances in which it would be permissible for the ID holder to retain possession of the ID card.

RESPONSE: None.

240. If it varies, under all applicable rules and procedures, as to whether or not the ID holder of an ID card with a card status of “Voluntary Surrender CSO” is permitted to retain physical possession of the ID card, identify all circumstances in which it would not be permissible for the ID holder to retain possession of the ID card.

RESPONSE: Anytime a customer chooses to voluntarily surrender their identification card.

241. Can an ID currently marked with a card status of “Voluntary Surrender CSO” still be a valid ID according to DPS? Please provide the basis for the response.

RESPONSE: If the identification card is marked with a card status of voluntary surrender and there is no removal date, the card is not valid because the customer chose to surrender the identification card.

242. Please list and explain all reasons why a card status of “Voluntary Surrender CSO” could be removed from an ID card record.

RESPONSE: When the applicant chooses to come in and reapply for an identification card or if it was placed on the record in error.

243. When a card status of “Voluntary Surrender CSO” that was once placed on an ID card record is removed, does the removal of that card status have any effect on whether the ID holder is legally entitled to physically possess the ID card?

RESPONSE: For practical purposes the removal of the card status would result in the reissuance of the identification card; however, I cannot answer to the legal entitlement as it requires legal review and conclusion.

244. Once the card status “Voluntary Surrender CSO” is removed from a non-expired ID card, would the ID holder be permitted to have physical possession of the ID card?

RESPONSE: Yes.
245. If physical possession of a driver license as between the ID holder and DPS varies for ID cards that at one time had a card status of “Voluntary Surrender CSO,” but later had that card status removed, please explain when DPS would possess the ID card versus when the ID holder would possess the ID card.

RESPONSE: If a Texas ID holder has voluntarily surrendered possession of the card then DPS would have physical possession of the card. If the Texas ID holder decides to reinstate the Texas ID then the ID holder would have possession of the card.

246. What does it mean for a Texas ID card record to have a card status of “Returned by Post Office”?

RESPONSE: The post office returned an identification card that was mailed to the customer by the Department.

247. Please state all reasons why a Texas ID card record could be marked with “Returned by Post Office” as a card status.

RESPONSE: See response to question number 246.

248. When a Texas ID card has a card status of “Returned by Post Office,” is the ID holder permitted, under all applicable rules and procedures, to retain physical possession of the ID card?

RESPONSE: The actual card is returned to the Department and destroyed, so possession of that card would not be possible, but the customer could still potentially have possession of the temporary permit or a previous or subsequently issued identification card.

249. If it varies, under all applicable rules and procedures, as to whether or not the ID holder of an ID with a card status of “Returned by Post Office” is permitted to retain physical possession of the ID card, identify all circumstances in which it would be permissible for the ID holder to retain possession of the ID card.

RESPONSE: See response to question number 248.

250. If it varies, under all applicable rules and procedures, as to whether or not the ID holder of an ID card with a card status of “Returned by Post Office” is permitted to retain physical possession of the ID card, identify all circumstances in which it would not be permissible for the ID holder to retain possession of the ID card.

RESPONSE: Since the card was returned by the post office, the customer would not have possession of that particular identification card.
251. Can an ID currently marked with a card status of “Returned by Post Office” still be a valid ID according to DPS? Please provide the basis for the response.

RESPONSE: Since the card was returned by the post office, the customer would not have possession of that particular identification card, but the record and any subsequently issued card would still be valid.

252. Please list and explain all reasons why a card status of “Returned by Post Office” could be removed from an ID card record.

RESPONSE: If it was placed on the record in error.

253. When a card status of “Returned by Post Office” that was once placed on an ID card record is removed, does the removal of that card status have any effect on whether the ID holder is legally entitled to physically possess the ID card?

RESPONSE: For practical purposes there is no effect as the card status is not removed; however, I cannot answer to the legal entitlement as it requires legal review and conclusion.

254. Once the card status “Returned by Post Office” is removed from a non-expired ID card, would the ID holder be permitted to have physical possession of the ID card?

RESPONSE: This status is not removed, it is maintained for administrative reasons and to determine the number of times an identification card from a particular transaction has been remade and re-mailed.

255. If physical possession of a driver license as between the ID holder and DPS varies for ID cards that at one time had a card status of “Returned by Post Office,” but later had that card status removed, please explain when DPS would possess the ID card versus when the ID holder would possess the ID card.

RESPONSE: There are no variances, the status indicates the card was returned and destroyed.

256. What does it mean for a Texas ID card record to have a card status of “Items Surrendered”?

RESPONSE: This status is placed on an identification card when the card is surrendered to a law enforcement agency or court and the card was returned to the Department.

257. Please state all reasons why a Texas ID card record could be marked with “Items Surrendered” as a card status.

RESPONSE: See response to question #256

258. When a Texas ID card has a card status of “Items Surrendered,” is the ID holder permitted, under all applicable rules and procedures, to retain physical possession of the ID card?

RESPONSE: The identification card has been surrendered and destroyed, so the customer would not have physical possession of that card, but the customer could still potentially have possession of a temporary permit or a previous or subsequently issued identification card.

259. If it varies, under all applicable rules and procedures, as to whether or not the ID holder of an ID with a card status of “Items Surrendered” is permitted to retain physical possession of the ID card, identify all circumstances in which it would be permissible for the ID holder to retain possession of the ID card.

RESPONSE: See response to question number 258.

260. If it varies, under all applicable rules and procedures, as to whether or not the ID holder of an ID card with a card status of “Items Surrendered” is permitted to retain physical possession of the ID card, identify all circumstances in which it would not be permissible for the ID holder to retain possession of the ID card.

RESPONSE: Since the card was surrendered and destroyed, the customer would not have possession of that particular identification card.

261. Can an ID currently marked with a card status of “Items Surrendered” still be a valid ID according to DPS? Please provide the basis for the response.

RESPONSE: Since the card surrendered and destroyed, the customer would not have possession of that particular identification card, but the record and any subsequently issued card would still be valid.

262. Please list and explain all reasons why a card status of “Items Surrendered” could be removed from an ID card record.

RESPONSE: If the status was entered on the record in error.

263. When a card status of “Items Surrendered” that was once placed on an ID card record is removed, does the removal of that card status have any effect on whether the ID holder is legally entitled to physically possess the ID card?

RESPONSE: For practical purposes there is no effect as the card status is not removed; however, I cannot answer to the legal entitlement as it requires legal review and conclusion.

264. Once the card status “Items Surrendered” is removed from a non-expired ID card, would the ID holder be permitted to have physical possession of the ID card?

RESPONSE: The status is not removed, it is kept for administrative purposes; however, the identification card can be reissued and yes they would be allowed possession, but the Department cannot state whether or not a person has actual possession of his or her Texas driver license.

265. If physical possession of a driver license as between the ID holder and DPS varies for ID cards that at one time had a card status of “Items Surrendered,” but later had that card status removed, please explain when DPS would possess the ID card versus when the ID holder would possess the ID card.

RESPONSE: There are no variances, the status indicates the card was surrendered and destroyed.

266. What does it mean for a Texas ID card record to have a card status of “Documents Needed”?

RESPONSE: This status is added to the identification card when it is determined that some type of documentation is needed before the card can be reissued again. The details indicate what information is needed and who to contact for assistance. It can be anything from the need for a particular form to be completed and/or signed or a request for additional documentation related to identity, citizenship, residency, etc.

267. Please state all reasons why a Texas ID card record could be marked with “Documents Needed” as a card status.

RESPONSE: See response to question number 266.

268. When a Texas ID card has a card status of “Documents Needed,” is the ID holder permitted, under all applicable rules and procedures, to retain physical possession of the ID card?

RESPONSE: Yes.

269. If it varies, under all applicable rules and procedures, as to whether or not the ID holder of an ID with a card status of “Documents Needed” is permitted to retain physical possession of the ID card, identify all circumstances in which it would be permissible for the ID holder to retain possession of the ID card.

RESPONSE: The customer would be permitted to retain possession of the identification card with this status.

270. If it varies, under all applicable rules and procedures, as to whether or not the ID holder of an ID card with a card status of “Documents Needed” is permitted to retain physical possession of the ID card, identify all circumstances in which it would not be permissible for the ID holder to retain possession of the ID card.

RESPONSE: None

271. Can an ID currently marked with a card status of “Documents Needed” still be a valid ID according to DPS? Please provide the basis for the response.

RESPONSE: It is valid for identity purposes as long as it is not expired or is within allowable limits of expiration and has not been cancelled due to fraud.

272. Please list and explain all reasons why a card status of “Documents Needed” could be removed from an ID card record.

RESPONSE: Once the customer has complied by providing the document or if it was placed on the record in error.

273. When a card status of “Documents Needed” that was once placed on an ID card record is removed, does the removal of that card status have any effect on whether the ID holder is legally entitled to physically possess the ID card?

RESPONSE: For practical purposes there is no effect; however, I cannot answer to the legal entitlement as it requires legal review and conclusion.

274. Once the card status “Documents Needed” is removed from a non-expired ID card, would the ID holder be permitted to have physical possession of the ID card?

RESPONSE: Yes.

275. If physical possession of a driver license as between the ID holder and DPS varies for ID cards that at one time had a card status of “Documents Needed,” but later had that card status removed, please explain when DPS would possess the ID card versus when the ID holder would possess the ID card.

RESPONSE: There are no variances; the status does not require surrender of the identification card.

Topic 16

276. Please explain how often updates to the data in the card status field are input into the DPS database (e.g., daily, weekly, etc.).

RESPONSE: Daily.

277. Please explain how often updates to the data in the card status remove date field are input into the DPS database (e.g., daily, weekly, etc.).
RESPONSE: Daily. The action to remove a card status by adding a remove/delete date removes the card status from the basic system view of the record, but the information relating to the addition and removal of each status is maintained in the DLS database tables.

Topic 19

278. Please identify and explain any and all circumstances in which more than one record is created in the DPS driver license database for the same person.

RESPONSE: The structure of the DPS driver license database dictates that there can be many records in many different tables associated with one person; however, there can be only one person record representing a person. The only way a person could have more than one person record would be if that person failed to reveal that he or she already had a driver license or ID card, either inadvertently or intentionally, and a customer service representative was unable to associate an existing person record with that person. In that case, another person record would be created with a different person identifier.

279. Please identify and explain any and all circumstances in which more than one record is created in the DPS driver license database for the same person with the same driver license number.

RESPONSE: The structure of the DPS driver license database dictates that there can be many records in many different tables associated with one person; however, there can be only one driver license record for the same person with the same driver license number.

280. Please identify and explain any and all circumstances in which more than one record is created in the DPS database of ID card holders for the same person.

RESPONSE: The structure of the DPS driver license database dictates that there can be many records in many different tables associated with one person; however, there can be only one person record representing a person. The only way a person could have more than one person record would be if that person failed to reveal that he or she already had a driver license or ID card, either inadvertently or intentionally, and a customer service representative was unable to associate an existing person record with that person. In that case, another person record would be created with a different person identifier.

281. Please identify and explain any and all circumstances in which more than one record is created in the DPS database of ID card holders for the same person with the same ID card number.

RESPONSE: The structure of the DPS driver license database dictates that there can be many records in many different tables associated with one person; however, there can be only one ID card record for the same person with the same ID card number.

Topic 20

282. Please identify and explain any and all reasons why one person would have more than one record in the July 23, 2014 DPS database extract produced in this case.

RESPONSE: A person would have more than one record in the July 23, 2014 DPS database extract if that person had more than one card status record with a removed date prior to January 16, 2014. There would be one record in the extract for each of these status records.

283. Please identify and explain any and all reasons why persons with records included in the July 23, 2014 DPS database extract would be duplicated anywhere in the DPS database outside of the records included in the July 23, 2014 database extract.

RESPONSE: A person would have more than one record in the July 23, 2014 DPS database extract if that person had more than one card status record with a removed date prior to January 16, 2014. There would be one record in the extract for each of these status records.

Topic 21

284. Does DPS ever use its driver license database to calculate the total number of current and valid driver licenses issued (including both personal and commercial licenses)?

RESPONSE: Yes

285. If yes, what fields does DPS use to sort and filter driver license records to determine the total number of current and valid driver licenses issued?

RESPONSE: The fields and the criteria of the data used varies depending on the definition of current and valid. The fields that would commonly be used are card type, license type, expiration date, record status, administrative status and card status.

286. Has DPS ever determined the total number of current and valid driver licenses issued through any method different from any method referenced above?

RESPONSE: No, all reports are created from the driver license system database.

287. If the answer to the question above is yes, please explain any different method that DPS has used.

RESPONSE: n/a.

288. Does DPS ever use its driver license database to calculate the total number of persons who hold a current and valid driver license (including both personal and commercial licenses)?

RESPONSE: Yes.

289. If yes, what fields does DPS use to sort and filter driver license records to determine the total number of persons who hold current and valid driver licenses?

RESPONSE: See response to question number 285. A driver license is tied to the person record, so the queries would be initiated using the same criteria.

290. Has DPS ever determined the total number of persons who hold a current and valid driver license through any different method than any method referred to above?

RESPONSE: No, all reports are created from the driver license system database.

291. If the answer to the question above is yes, please explain any different method that DPS has used.

RESPONSE: n/a.

292. Does DPS use its ID card database to calculate the total number of ID card holders with current and valid ID cards?

RESPONSE: Yes.

293. If yes, what fields does DPS use to sort and filter ID card records to determine the total number of ID card holders with current and valid ID cards?

RESPONSE: The fields and the criteria of the data used varies depending on the definition of current and valid. The fields that would commonly be used are card type, expiration date, administrative status and card status.

294. Has DPS ever determined the total number of ID card holders with current and valid ID cards through any different method than any method referred to above?

RESPONSE: No, all reports are created from the driver license system database.

295. If the answer to the question above is yes, please explain any different method that DPS has used.
RESPONSE: n/a.

296. Does DPS ever use its driver license and personal ID card database to determine the total number of persons who hold either a current and valid driver license or current and valid personal ID card?

RESPONSE: Yes.

297. If yes, what fields does DPS use to sort and the database records to determine the total number of persons who hold either a current and valid driver license or a current and valid personal ID card?

RESPONSE: See response to question number 293. An identification card is tied to the person record, so the queries would be initiated using the same criteria.

298. Has DPS ever determined the total number of persons who hold either a current and valid driver license or a current and valid personal ID card through any different method than any method referred to above?

RESPONSE: No, all reports are created from the driver license system database.

299. If the answer to the question above is yes, please explain any different method that DPS has used.

RESPONSE: n/a.

300. Does DPS ever use its driver license and personal ID card database to determine the total number of persons who hold both a current and valid driver license and a current and valid personal ID card?

RESPONSE: Yes.

301. If yes, what fields does DPS use to sort and the database records to determine the total number of persons who hold both a current and valid driver license and a current and valid personal ID card?

RESPONSE: The fields and the criteria of the data used may vary depending on the definition of current and valid. The fields that would commonly be used are card type, license type, expiration date, record status, administrative status and card status.

302. Has DPS ever determined the total number of persons who hold both a current and valid driver license and a current and valid personal ID card through any different method than any method referred to above?

RESPONSE: No, all reports are created from the driver license system database.
303. If the answer to the question above is yes, please explain any different method that DPS has used.

RESPONSE: n/a.

Who IS eligible to apply for a Texas Election Identification Certificate?

The department shall issue an election certificate upon request to persons who do not have one of the forms of acceptable photo identification listed above, and are:

- A registered voter in Texas and present a valid voter registration, or are eligible to vote and submit a voter registration application to the Department.
- A United States citizen.
- A resident of Texas.
- At least 17 years and 10 months of age.

Who is NOT eligible to apply for a Texas Election Identification Certificate?

Any persons issued one of the following documents are not eligible for an election certificate:

- Texas driver license (includes occupational license with photograph) — unexpired, or expired less than 60 days.
- Texas identification card — unexpired, or expired less than 60 days.
- Texas concealed handgun license — unexpired, or expired less than 60 days.
- United States military identification card containing the person’s photograph.
- United States passport — unexpired, or expired less than 60 days.
- United States citizenship certificate containing the person’s photograph.
- Persons who are not United States citizens (i.e., permanent residents, asylees, refugees or temporary visitors).

Section 521A of the Texas Transportation Code states that:

- An election certificate may not be used or accepted as a personal identification certificate.
- The department may not collect a fee for an election certificate or a duplicate election certificate issued under this section.
- The department may require each applicant for an original or renewal election certificate to furnish to the department proof of identification and US citizenship.
- The department may cancel and require surrender of an election certificate after determining that the holder was not entitled to, or gave incomplete information in the application for, the election certificate.

SOCIAL SECURITY NUMBER COLLECTION DISCLOSURE

Disclosure of your social security account number is mandatory for driver license applicants, but voluntary for identification card and election certificate applicants. This information is solicited pursuant to 42 U.S.C 405(c)(2)(C)(i), 42 U.S.C. 666(a)(13)(A); 49 C.F.R. 383.153, Texas Family Code Section 231.302(c)(1) and Texas Transportation Code Sections 522.021 and 521.142. The Department will use social security account number information for identification purposes and will only release the number to the Child Support Enforcement Division of the Attorney General’s Office, the U.S Selective Service Administration and the Texas Secretary of State for statutorily authorized purposes pursuant to Texas Transportation Code Section 521.044.
