

AALS MINI-WORKSHOP ON ALTERNATIVE DISPUTE RESOLUTION
Thursday, January 4, 1996 San Antonio, Texas

THURSDAY, JANUARY 4, 1996

8:45 - 9:00 a.m.

Welcome

Judith W. Wegner, University of North Carolina and AALS President

Introduction

Nancy H. Rogers, Ohio State University and Chair, Planning Committee for the AALS Mini-Workshop on Alternative Dispute Resolution

9:00 - 10:30 a.m.

ADR and the Lawyer-Advocate

ADR is making new and shifting demands on the lawyer and the lawyer-client relationship. These new realities suggest a broader vision of law teaching. An evolving hypothetical poses issues of ethical and practice opportunities and dilemmas for the lawyer.

Moderator: James J. Alfini, Northern Illinois University

Chorus: Leonard L. Riskin, University of Missouri-Columbia
Edward F. Sherman, The University of Texas
Gerald R. Williams, Brigham Young University

Lawyers: Carol Bensinger Liebman, Columbia University
Robert M. Ackerman, Dickinson School of Law

Clients: James B. Boskey, Seton Hall University
Carol L. Izumi, George Washington University
Beatrice A. Moulton, University of California, Hastings College of the Law

10:30 - 11:45 a.m.

Concurrent Sessions

Putting a Little ADR in the First Year Courses

Trina Grillo, University of San Francisco
Jeffrey H. Hartje, University of Denver

Putting a Little ADR in the Upperclass Substantive Courses

Beryl S. Blaustone, City University of New York
Mary Kay Kisthardt, University of Missouri-Kansas City

"You've Got One Shot" -- the Survey ADR Course

Kimberlee K. Kovach, South Texas College of Law

Putting a Little ADR in the Clinical Courses

Homer C. La Rue, Howard University
Loretta W. Moore, Washburn University

Teaching International ADR

Jack J. Coe, Jr., Pepperdine University
William F. Fox, Jr., Catholic University

Using ADR in Law School Governance

James J. Alfani, Northern Illinois University
Joseph D. Harbaugh, Nova Southeastern University

"Fitting the Forum to the Fuss"

L. Kinvin Wroth, University of Maine

Teaching Facilitation Skills

Beatrice A. Moulton, University of California, Hastings College of the Law

Teaching ADR Through Simulation

Carol Bensinger Liebman, Columbia University
Thomas O. Patrick, West Virginia University

Teaching ADR Through Multi-Media

James B. Boskey, Seton Hall University

12:00 - 2:00 p.m.

AALS Section on Alternative Dispute Resolution Luncheon
(Advance ticket purchase required; a ticket is required for admission.)

2:00 - 2:50 p.m.

Judicial (Mis)use of ADR? A debate

ADR is now being institutionalized in the courts. Some think that judges will use mandatory ADR to coerce settlements or that it will add delay and cost to the pretrial process. Should judges have the authority to order parties' participation in non-binding ADR?

Moderator: L. Randolph Lowry, Pepperdine University

Debaters: H. William Allen, Little Rock, Arkansas
Frank E. A. Sander, Harvard University

Commentator: Dr. Deborah R. Hensler, RAND Corporation, Los Angeles, California

3:00- 4:00 p.m

Visions of a New Legal System