THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY
MORITZ COLLEGE OF LAW

Oxford, England

A Summer in Oxford

The University of Oxford-The Ohio State University Summer Law Program offers students the unique opportunity to study with faculty from both the University of Oxford in England and The Ohio State University Moritz College of Law in the United States. Students will learn about the British and American legal systems through a combination of classwork, guest lectures, and excursions throughout Oxford and London.

The program houses students in private rooms at St. Anne's College and provides them with full board – three meals a day, seven days a week. Participants can choose from among four different courses and earn up to six hours of credit toward their law degrees. Tuition costs are kept low for a study abroad program of this scope, making our summer of study in Oxford an excellent value.

The University of Oxford was founded in the 12th century and is known worldwide as a premier institution of higher education. St. Anne's is one of Oxford's newest colleges and has an outstanding reputation for academic excellence. Its scenic grounds are located close to all of Oxford's other colleges and libraries, as well as the city's downtown shopping district.

The Moritz College of Law and the University of Oxford have teamed up to run the Summer Law Program since 1987, educating law students on a variety of comparative and international law topics.

Course Offerings

Four different courses are offered, each with a class size of approximately 30 students. Students enrolled in the program may choose any combination of the following four courses and earn up to six semester hours of credit:

Comparative Legal Professions (3 semester hours)

Comparative Sentencing and Punishment (1 semester hour)

European Union Law (3 semester hours)

Business Negotiations in a Global Environment (2 semester hours)

The academic program has been approved by the American Bar Association's Section of Legal Education and Admissions to the Bar, and credit is awarded by The Ohio State University Moritz College of Law.

For complete course descriptions and other information, please visit go.osu.edu/oxfordsummer.

Past topics include "Tony Blair's Domestic Policy Triumphs 1997-2007," "From Blair to Brown: British Foreign Policy in Flux," and "The Conservative Challenge: The Politics of David Cameron." Cost is included in program tuition.

APPLICATION PROCESS

Applications are available online at: moritzlaw.osu.edu/education-abroad/summer-program/application-process

Students who will have completed at least one academic year in good academic standing at an ABA-accredited law school prior to June 30 of the year they plan to participate in the summer program may apply. Graduate students in law-related fields will be considered for admission on an individual basis.

An applicant from a law school other than The Ohio State University should submit an application and a written statement from the dean or other appropriate official at his or her law school certifying that the applicant is in good academic standing. The statement also should indicate that the applicant's law school will accept the credit earned from the University of Oxford-The Ohio State University Summer Law Program. (If your school will not accept credit, please contact the program administrator before applying.)

The written statement should be sent to the program administrator at MoritzOxford@osu.edu.

A deposit of $300 is due with the online application and will be applied to the application fee. One hundred dollars ($100) of the deposit is refundable if a student withdraws from the program by March 15. Otherwise, the $300 deposit is refundable only if a student is not admitted into the program or if the program is cancelled.

Total enrollment in the program is limited, and eligible applicants will be admitted into the program on a first-come, first-served basis. Applications should be made as early as possible. It is strongly recommended that all applications be made on or before March 1. Total program costs must be paid in full by June 15. Except in the event of program cancellation, amounts paid for the balance of program costs are not refundable.

The Ohio State University reserves the right to cancel this program in the event of underenrollment or other compelling circumstances that prevent the program from being held. All fees will be immediately returned in the event of cancellation.

MEDICAL INSURANCE

While participating in an Ohio State study abroad program, students are required to maintain their primary insurance coverage. As part of the program, students also receive supplemental insurance through GeoBlue Travel Insurance for the duration of their study abroad program. This insurance is provided as a part of the Study Abroad Program Fee and supplements a student's current health insurance.

Excursions

The program also includes numerous educational and cultural side trips. Students typically will visit courts in London (including the Old Bailey), the English Inns of Court, and the Houses of Parliament. Trips also will be scheduled to the Royal Shakespeare Theatre in Stratford-upon-Avon, Windsor Castle, and Runnymede. Cost is included in program tuition.
