

Clinics and Experiential Learning

Experiential learning allows students to practice critical lawyering skills and to apply the substantive law learned in the classroom in complicated, real-world settings. Moritz offers an array of live-client clinics, simulation-based skills courses, and courses that combine classroom teaching with field-placement projects. In legal clinics, students research, investigate, write, counsel, negotiate, and litigate their way to a resolution on behalf of their clients.

Clinics
Civil Law Clinic Criminal Defense Clinic Criminal Prosecution Clinic	Entrepreneurial Business Law Clinic Immigration Clinic Justice for Children Clinic	Legislation Clinic Mediation Clinic
Field Experience
Compliance Externship	Judicial Externship	Public Interest and Government Externship
Simulations
Pretrial Litigation Real Estate Development State & Local Tax Venture Capital & Dealmaking Health Care Agreements and Transactions	Advanced Legal Writing Legal Negotiation Dispute Resolution in Employment Dispute System Design Workshop Family and Divorce Mediation Digital Dispute Design Trial Practice	DPIP: Resolving Community Civil Rights Disputes DPIP: Mediation in Complex Litigation DPIP: Corporate Social Responsibility DPIP: Drafting Int'l Commercial Documents Professional Practice Capstone Course: China Connection Professional Practice Capstone Course-Advanced Communication Skills for Lawyers
Related
Evidence		