

Regulatory and Government Practice Curriculum Plan

This curriculum plan aims to help you select courses if you are interested in a career in regulatory and government practice and/or administrative law or focusing your studies on this area. We strongly encourage every student to pursue a broad legal education that includes core courses (including bar courses), courses relevant to a student's professional interests and goals, and courses that appeal to a student for any particular reason. This page provides general advice and information about the courses and other offerings at the College of Law.

If you are interested in regulatory and government practice and/or administrative, we encourage you to seek individual guidance on designing your 2L and 3L curriculum from any of the faculty resources listed here. In addition, the Assistant Dean for Students and the Associate Dean for Academic Affairs are available to meet with students for general academic advising.

Sequencing: Generally, fundamental courses should be taken before more specialized courses. The required courses of Legislation & Regulation and Constitutional Law will provide you with valuable foundations for your future coursework. In this area, that means you will want to take the basic Administrative Law course during your 2L year. You may choose to take either Appellate Advocacy or Transactional Practice for your second-year writing requirement. You may also want to take specialized courses in your area of focus in your 2L year.
